CAUSE

On September 10, 2009, the offender was arrested by Hackensack, New Jersey Police and charged with burglary and theft by unlawful taking. According to the police report, the offender is charged with entering the structure located at 151 Prospect Avenue, Hackensack, which was not open to the public at the time and which the offender was not licensed or privileged to enter. While inside this structure, it is further alleged that the offender committed the offense of theft by unlawful taking by removing one (1) Magellan navigation system and five (5) dollars in U.S. currency from a 2001 Mazda without having permission to do so. On September 10, 2009, bail was set at $50,000 in Hackensack Municipal Court with no ten percent option. The charge was referred to New Jersey Superior Court, Bergen County, and is pending Grand Jury. Furthermore, on September 10 2009, a criminal complaint was filed by Paramus, New Jersey Police charging the offender with conspiracy to commit burglary and fraudulent use of credit cards. According to the police report, the offender, along with an accomplice, were observed on August 27, 2009, via security video surveillance at the Hanjin-Atrium Building located at 80 East and Route 4 in Paramus, New Jersey. The offender and his accomplice are observed entering the complainants vehicle through the open sunroof and removing a money clip from inside the vehicle containing credit cards and a drivers license without having authorization to do so. It is further alleged that the offender and his accomplice then drove to Staples, an office supply store, located on Route 4 West, Paramus, and purchased two (2) laptop computers valued at $1,600. Bail in the amount of $25,000 was set in Paramus Municipal Court. On September 11, 2009, the offender posted bond on both charges and was released. All charges are pending. The undersigned officer will continue to closely monitor his actions and the status of the pending criminal charges.

Respectfully submitted,

Elizabeth Villa
